Lincoln League Meeting.

Newcastle, Ind., Feb. 12.—Scores of Republicans from all parts of Indiana attended the annual meeting of the Indiana Lincoln League here, Monday.
A business meeting was held in the afternoon and the gathering closed with a banquet Monday night.

Much regret was expressed that
Secretary of the Interior Walter L.
Fisher, a former Indianan, was unable to attend the meeting and make the chief address. The secretary telegraphed that matters connected with the interior department would compel him to remain in Washington. He expressed the wish that the meeting would be a banner one for Hoosier Republicanism.

Resolutions endorsing President
Taft's administration were passed.
Former Vice President Charles W.
Fairbanks arrived in the afternoon,
after he had once advised the committee
he would be unable to attend.

IGNORANT MASSES OF MEXICO ARE DISSATISFIED WITH MADERO; COMEZ, COVETING PLACE, FINDS IT EASY TO START REVOLUTION

Emilio Vasquez Gomez, leader of the latest Mexican revolution and who probably would become president of the republic if the Madero administration is overthrown, is finding it easy to convince the masses that President Madero is doing no better by them than did Diaz. Madero promised freedom in affairs of government, but the people are too ignorant to participate and their leaders are little more enlightened. Francisco Martinez, private secretary to Gomez, has opened a junta at El Paso, Tex., to push the new revolt.

THE PRESIDENT TO STRIKE HARD

And Knock out Misrepresentation and Hypocrisy.

Washington, Feb. 12.—"The time has come to clear the political atmosphere, and the next four months will get rid of lies, misrepresentations and hypocrisy," said President Taft, today, indicating his intention to oppose transgressions by his political enemies upon his return from a Lincoln's birthday jaunt to New York and New Jersey. "Misrepresentation will be met during the coming campaign," the president told his friends. "The Democrats' confidence is misplaced; it is due to misunderstanding. The time has come to clear the political atmosphere."

Urged to action by attacks, the president clearly indicated today his future policy of both offense and defense. He opened his aggressive attacks in Ohio; followed it up in a speech here last Saturday night, and continued the attack in New York last night.

The president's appearance today backed up his statements.

He was in fine fettle and good humor. He had promised a "mild" political speech in New York. Then he jolted "political emotionals" and "neurotics." He laughed heartily when asked if he considered such expressions "mild." The president told callers today that he would continue his program of strenuous "combating misrepresentation of the administration."

Both from within and without the party. The president plans to make every speech both a "direct attack and firm defense." He told his friends he is not apologizing for his administration, but is meeting attack with attack.

This, it was announced, on the highest authority, is the future Taft policy.

The pictures were sent here by the members of the Washington local who have had plenty of opportunity to observe the president. "He is the best dressed president since President Arthur," says the enthusiastic note that accompanied the photographs.

Cortelyou and Madden.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Former Postmaster General Cortelyou and his former assistant, Edwin C. Madden, clashed before the house committee on expenditures in the postoffice department, which is investigating charges of "persecution" of the Lewis Publishing company, of St. Louis, by postal fraud orders.

Madden, who left the department because he disagreed with Cortelyou's attitude in the case, appeared as counsel for the Lewis company. He told Cortelyou that he was convinced the department intended to give the Lewis concern a "raw deal," and that, therefore, he had refused to represent the department before the Overstreet commission which investigated the affair.

"Didn't I ask that this Lewis controversy be taken out of my hands?" demanded Madden.

"I think you did," replied Cortelyou.

"I made that request because I felt that I could not do the thing you wanted done," Madden declared.

Blamed a Good Worker.

"I blamed my report for severe distress in my left side for two years," writes W. Evans, Danville, Va., "but I know now it was indigestion, as Dr. King's New Life Pills completely cured me." Best for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, constipation, headache or debility. 25c at Tschannen Bros.

For Sale.

FOR SALE—A number one good Washington, Feb. 12.—Personal and confidential letters purporting to have been written by President Taft to Major Beecher D. Ray, of the army paymaster's corps, in connection with the charges by retiring paymaster General C. H. Whipple that political pull kept Ray in the corps, were read to the house committee on expenditures in the war department. They were dated at Beverly and discussed charges brought against Ray by an individual whose name was suppressed. The writer says "I have no relation to Major Ray that prevents my directing you to take the same disciplinary action in respect to him as in the case of any of your subordinates," and then continued: "While Ray's conduct, if charges are true, could subject him to the severest condemnation, there seems from his language and telegram to be such a condemnation by him and his wife that it would be well to avoid the demoralizing scandal for the army, involved in court-martial proceedings which would place a stigma on 'and Mrs. Ray'—that they could never recover from."

"Major Ray did me some services of a political character years ago, at the instance of my brother and he is disposed to assume much—too much—on that score, I wish him treated as any other officer in the service."

The second letter signed also "William H. Taft" reiterated that it was considered best not to ventilate the alleged scandal in view of possible demoralizing effect on the army, and explains why certain parts of the record in the case were not given in response to a congressional request.

Stokes Wounded by Jilted Expert.

New York, Feb. 12.—W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire horseman who was the target for Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, in a sensational shooting affray at the girl's apartment, is convinced that he is dying as the result of a mysterious injury inflicted upon him by a jilted expert.

After the shooting, Stokes was attacked by Japanese servants who believed he had attempted to kill the girls. One of them struck him over the left kidney and the organ has been causing him intense pain ever since.

Stokes consulted many jilted experts and says he learned that the Japanese have a subtle means of attack known as the "death blow," which results fatally months after it is inflicted. The millionaire is satisfied that he has been a victim of the death blow.

Doctors Use This For Eczema

Dr. Evans, ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D. D. D. Prescription for Eczema.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist writes: "I am convinced that the D. D. D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D. D. D. remedy for years. It will take away the itch the instant you apply it."

In fact, we are so sure of what D. D. D. will do for you that we will be glad to let you have a $1 bottle on our guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.
